TORGIVENESS OF ENEMIES.

It is announced by General Secretary Wallace I. Woodin. of Hartford, that the convention program is now complete and that it is even more comprehensive than the Norwich program last year. There will be over one hundred people who will participate, sixty of whom are Sunday school specialists of recognized ability. Those who attend may be assured of getting the ideas of the foremost Sunday school workers of the country.

While the program does not lack inspirational features, it is peculiarly practical and educational. Special emphasis will be placed on the rural schools, and work with the immigrant. The convention theme will be The Child and His Rights.

One of the interesting features of the program will be the Old Guard supper. FORGIVENESS OF ENEMIES. Taught by Gospel for 21st Sunday After Pentedost—End of Ecclesiastical Year Nearing.

Vesterday was the 21st Sunday after Pentecost, only three more Sundays remaining to close the ecclesiastical year. The gospel for the day was Matt. XVIII, 23-35, the parable of the ungrateful and revengeful servant. The closing text, 'So also shall my heavenly Father say to you, if you forgive not every one his brother from equr hearts,' suggested the theme of Rev. Myles P. Galvin's sermon at the high mass in St. Patrick's church.

The Saviour set mankind the example of constant love, patience and charity toward his enemies, and even when the cross prayed God to forgive them, forgetting the ignominious death which they desired for him.

It is inconsistent for men to pray daily "Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us," yet to harbor in their hearts hatred resentment and a desire for revenge.

Congressman Mahan congratulated the meeting on the display of loyalty which those present gave by remaining even to this late hour in the evening and said that he firmly believed that history would repeat itself and that Simeon E. Baldwin would be elected as the first senstor from Connecticut to be elected by the people and that he himself would be returned as congressman. He had a warm affection for Norwich, he said, and the one real object he had in desiring to go back to congress was in order to do work that would complete the New London harber imprevement, which would be a benefit to Norwich. He was sincere in his belief that he could per-fect legislation also that would for-ward the Norwich to Worcester canal, for which the survey had already been authorized. If this can be brought about it will mean growth and prosperity for the mills on the French and other rivers as well as a new era for this whole section.

The congressman thanked the Nor-wich democrats for their support and affirmed that he and the party had ammed that he and the party had kept every promise, so far as able, that had been made in the platform. His desire now is to see Norwich and New London grow together, with the banks of the Thames lined with industries and this the happiest and most prosperous section of New England.

A burst of appleuse greeted his final words and Chairman Fanning declared the meeting adjourned, about 10:30 o'clock, while a number came up to shake hands with the congressman, who returned in his automobile to New London that night.

TAFTVILLE

afayette Club Held Smoker and Social-Second Team Played a Game with Plainfield-Reception for Mr. and Mrs. George Lamothe.

An Enjoyable Evening.

The Xens society of the First Baptist church held an enthusiastic meeting Friday evening with about fifty present. Hallowe'en entertainment tells the story of a jolly evening. A real ghost met each one at the door directing to the cloak rooms; on returning, Hallowe'en favors were presented by a sister ghost. These favors were worn during the evening.

The room was dimly lighted, the one bright spot being at the witch's den, where her caldron, swung on t fripod, was kept hot over a fire. Mrs. Joseph L. Oat was the best kind of a witch. On either side guarding the fire were an owl and a gnome. Contrary to tradition, the Xens' owl is a bird of good omen, and hoo-coed good luck to the acciety for the coming year; so also, the gnome, when in slow, hollow tones he announced what he looked like and what he was there for—the good of the Xens. In real life Harry Howard and John B. Oat as workers will help to carry out what they prophesied when they were the Hallowe'en owl and gnome.

At 8 o'clock the Hallowe'en games began and they were varied and many, the games closing by all marching to the witch's caldron, where a fortune was found, and then to a prettily and substantially sot table. The fortunes were read with much merriment after the following lunch was served: Sahdwiches, doughnuts and cheese, cake and coffee. These taking the part of ghosts were Mrs. Amos C. Swan, Mrs. Harry Howard and Mrs. Herbert Willey.

After supper Mrs. John B. Oat, the prehident, called the business meeting to order. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Harry Howard, and approved. Thrue new names for membership were proposed. With the new business was the society's vote for $5 to be sent to the Red Cross. There were man y plans laid for the sale, which is to be held by the Xens. The evening's eartertainmbent was cared for by Mrs. Herbert Willey Mr, and Mrs. Harry Howard and Mrs. Amos C. Swan, who were assisted by John B. Oat and Mrs. Joseph L. Oat. The Lafayette club held a smoker The Lafayette club held a smoker and social at the Naturalization club hall Saturday evening with a large number present. Dancing was enjoyed, followed by a musical programme furnished by Ernest Tanguay, S. Chenette, Fred Dugas, A. Dupont and Adolph Dugas. All through the evening cake and punch were served and at 12 o'clock the whole party sat down to a clam chowder. The committee in charge of the affair were Moses Lambert, E.
